

Exmouth Community Larder : mid-summer update 2018

12 Thai children and their coach trapped in a cave have grabbed our news recently. Jesus' Great Commandment to love your neighbour seems to have worked in the international support to get them out, supported by the strength of prayers, albeit largely Buddhist. Any partisan Christians need to remember the text (Acts 10-45) in which they "....were all astonished that the gift of the Holy Spirit should be poured out on the pagans too". The Thai children's own perseverance may owe much to their coach, who led them in meditation. We sometimes refer to a "darkest hour" a week in pitch black ?

The worldwide lesson seems to be that we are all in this life together.

The Larder continues as usual through the summer; holidays cause gaps in staffing and client numbers show big weekly variations, but the rounded average is similar to previous years as the graph shows.

Thank you for keeping the donations coming!!

This is just a brief bulletin to keep continuity while many people are away.
